

My Contribution

My contribution in this project consisted of creating the about me page (front and back end), contact us page (front and back end), reviews page (front and back end), all 3 farm pages (front end), login (front and back end), profile page (front end). I helped my team members as much as I can with debugging and implementing the database where necessary. My contribution can be seen on github as we were continuously uploading our progress on github in this four-person software engineering project. My username is Rmartinez213 on github and I have plenty of other programs on my github as well.
